

Present Technologies values your personal data and is GDPR compliant.

What information we collect, how we gather it, and what we do with it

We collect information from you so we can deliver a better experience.

We use Analytics services in order to have a better understanding of how visitors generally use our website, so we can improve it over time. These services store cookies to be able to anonymously identify visitors. For this purpose, we use Google Analytics. They use this data solely on our behalf. They do not share it except in aggregate form. This information is processed in a way that does not identify you, nor anyone visiting the website. Additionally, we do not store any of the information above. Please view the Google Analytics privacy policy for more information.

We also collect your email through our website if you submit it in a form to receive our newsletter. We use MailChimp to collect that information and send the newsletters. They use this data solely on our behalf and do not share it with third parties. Although their servers are mostly in the US, they are certified to the Privacy Shield Framework which provides them with the necessary certification to receive EU data. They also collect newsletter usage statistics to help us understand how the newsletter is delivered. Please review the MailChimp privacy policy for more information.

At any point, you can unsubscribe to the newsletter by clicking on a Unsubscribe link on the newsletter or by sending an email with that request to privacy@present-technologies.com.

For how long we keep the information

We set the Analytics platform to erase any data after 50 months since the last access.

We store your email as long as you allow us to and you can change this consent at any time.

Sharing

We do not share your personal information with third parties besides the ones referred to in this Privacy Policy. Any third parties handling your data will operate under the terms of this privacy policy.

Your rights

You have the right to access, verify, and correct your personal information. You also have the right to request erasure of your personal information. You can request it by sending an email to privacy@present-technologies.com.

Newsletter

Our newsletter is sent periodically and it only has information relating to the activity of Present Technologies. Each newsletter will have a link which will allow you to configure your preferences.